DROFESSOR THOMSON'S HERB'AL REMEDIES.

Of all the Medicines offered to the sick, for the cure of discesses, none has ever gained public favour so rapidly as PROFESSOR THOMSON'S HERBAL REMEDIES, the select of their composition and the mildness of their operations have induced numbers to try them who had failed to get relief from other sources, and who hitherto were prejudiced against botanic simples. But the FLATTERING AND NUMEROUS TESTIMONIALS that have been received clearly prove that they surpass most of the advertised medicines of the day, and the steadily INCREASING DEMAND is a fact which speeks loudest of all in favour of PROFESSOR THOM.

Thy IT.

"The secential properties of this medicine are found to be of so southing a nature as to subdue the most investorate cough, and to produce in the deablists and and consumptive a gradual revival of the healthy functions of the chest, exiding the vital energy of the lungs to a healthy resection, and thereby inducing a more natural stimulus to the respiratory organs; thus restoring the whole functional derangement from a state of gradual decay, and resuscitaing it in all its various ramifications to primitive health and streates. If you suffer from coughs, colds, asthms, broughtids, influence, honoresomes, spitting of blood, incipient coman spiton, or any disorder of the lungs or chest, procurs a bottle of Li NGARU'S celebrated COUGH LINCTUS: you will find it to give instant relief, and may rely upon a speedy cure. In recent coughs and colds, a single bottle will graerally effect a perfact cure. This agreeable praparation loceras the congealed phlagm, thereby causing a fire expectoration and entirely removing that distressing complaint, so common to our climate; and, as it contains nothing of an injurious nature, may be taken by the most delicate, and at any period of He.

SINGER'S MANUFACTURING COMPANT'S MACHINES.

GREAT ECONOMY OF THREAD.

The importance of the Shuttle Lock-stitch cannot be over-estimated, and after many years of trial against the severest tests, it is universally admitted to be the strongest and most economical stitch for all purposes. A glaace at the following table may be interesting to those who have not before considered the subject from an economical point of view:—

not before considered the suspect rous as over-of view:—

A seam, one yard leng, sewed by the Singer Manufactur-ing Company's Lock-stitch Machine, requires only 2 to 24 yards of thread.

By a single-thread chain-stitch machine, 4 to 41 yards.

By a double-thread and double chain stitch, or so-called Knos-stitch Machine, 5 to 54 yards of thread.

Showing that other machines require for each yard of seam from two to three times as much thread as is used by the Lock-stitch.

in the proud position of PREMIER SEWING-MACHINE OF THE WORLD. and gives it its vast superiority over the Machines of all other makers, is found in each of the SINGER MANUFACTURING MACHINES.

This very important fact is well-known in all the largest and most intelligently managed Clothing Manufactories in all parts of the world, and if Australian confirmation is required, we respectfully refer to all the leading manufacturers throughout these colonies.

The Sydney Morning Berald.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1874.

Gazette notice of the 11th ultimo, annothe non-recognition of mining transfers, the Department of Mines could have given full and due consideration to the circumstances with which it was dealing. During the years 1872 and 1873, the Government received a sum of more than £220,000 from persons applying for leases of auriferous land, or of land containing other minutes and the sum of the s containing other minerals and metals than gold So great was the rush of applicants that the resources of the Lands Department were altogether overtaxed, and it was impossible to keep down the arrears of work that rapidly accumu-lated. A great deal of work was got through, and no reasonable man complains of the fact that, notwithstanding all exertions, the and no reasonable man complains of the fact that, notwithstanding all exertions, the extraordinary demands of an unexpected emergency were not immediately complied with. But partly through the delays in the issue of leases, and partly because keen speculation is in a certain degree essential to mining enterprise, the practice of applying for mining leases, and then transferring for a consideration the interest of the applicants to other parties, soon became, or was from the first, extensively prevalent. We may safely assert, that of the £220,000 here menfrom the first, extensively prevalent. We may safely assert, that of the £220,000 here mer tioned, a very considerable proportion—perhaps the greater part—would not have been received by the Government but for the system under which interests acquired by original applicants were sold and transferred them to other parties better able to retain willing to purchase those interests for resale at a profit. The mining excitement of 1872 may be said to have flourished upon the basis of this system of transfers. The working of that system of transfers. The working of pounds to the Government. And yet, now that the excitement has died away, and many amongst us have nothing to show for money spent under its influence but transfer vouchers. the Mining Department proclaims that no transfer or assignment of the interest of any promise of a lease of Crown lands for mining. whether for gold or for other minerals, made prior to the issue of such lease, will be recognised by the Crown.

But this is not the whole case. These trans fers have, as a matter of fact, already been recognised. The whole system of transfer has been carried on under the cognisance and with the implied sanction of the Government Government officers have been employed to register these transfers amongst the public records; forms have been settled and printed for certifying their registration; and the transaction has been made by the Government a source of revenue. If this be not recognition, it is hard to say in what recog-nition consists. The declaration of the 11th September, that from that date the transfers thus effected, thus provided for by a public department, thus registered by public officers, thus made the basis of charges which have brought a handsome income into the Treasury declaration that the Crown will not recognise the authorised acts of its own officers. In other words, it is a species of repudiation.

We cannot think that the circumstance We cannot think that the circumstances were fully considered by the Mining Department. It is not to be supposed that the intention of the Government was to play fast and loose with people who have embarked in mining enterprise—that transactions which were clearly recognised when a profit was to be made out of them by the Government are to be ignored when the interest were clearly recognised when a profit was to be made out of them by the Government are to be ignored when the interest of those who have paid the money to the Government calls for an acknowledgment of their validity. To require the signatures of the original applicants to the leases when the Government has formally registered transfer of their interest to others are ready and willing to sign the leases, and would in place of the original applicants be bound by the conditions imposed, is not merely a piece of legal pedantry but a palpable injustice. This announcement of non-recognition might have been justified if at the outset all parties had been warned by the Government that transfers before lease issued were illegal or invalid : or perhaps even if the Government had rigidly abstained from having anything to do with them directly or indirectly. But under the actual circumstances, when, as we have seen, the Government has made d money thereby, and has furthe recognised the transferrees as the represent-atives of the original applicants by receiv-ing payments from them instead of from the original applicants as we understand has been the case, the recent action of the Mining Department is clearly unjustifiable. These people have been led by the Government to believe in the validity of transfers formally effected and duly registered; ransfers formally effected and duly registered; and they have been led to believe in the sufficiency of the certificates of registration as evidence that they, as the holding transferrees, are the persons in whose favour and in whose name the promised leases should be issued. It is altogether too late ow for the department to turn round and say, we will not recognise these transfers, and you must hunt up the original applicants from the uttermost parts of the earth, in order that they may attach their names to leases in which, as the public records of the colony show, they have no longer an interest. It can hardly have been considered that there is another class of persons who would be put in great straits if the non-recognition of transfers were persisted in. There are some who are were persisted in. There are some who are neither original applicants nor intending lessees—parties who have purchased from original applicants or their transferrees, and have entered into negotiations for the transfer of their interests to distant—perhaps European—capitalists. How can these negotiations be carried to a successful issue if the whole the standard of the successful issue if the whole the standard of the successful issue if the whole the standard of the successful issue if the whole the standard of the successful issue if the whole the standard of the successful issue if the whole the standard of the successful issue if the whole the standard of the successful issue if the whole the standard of the successful issue if the whole the standard of the successful issue if the whole the successful issue if the whole the standard of the successful issue if the whole the successful issue if the successful issue is the successful issue if the successful issue is the successful issue i business is made to hinge upon procuring the signatures of the eriginal applicants, whose whereabouts may be undiscoverable amidst the changes and movements of colonial life?

As a broad principle of public policy, the Government, in its dealings with Crown tenants or intending lessees, should show an example of fairness and liberality—not sacrificing the interests of the State on sacrificing the interests of the State on the one hand, and certainly not allowing people on the other to be misled into a false position and victimised by a change of policy that wears the appearance of sharp practice. In this particular matter, however, there are special reasons why everything savouring of hardship or injustice should be sedulously avoided. Mining enterprise in this colony has been under a cloud. The recent undue excitement in connection with it has been followed, not unnaturally, by a panic. In order that it may recover a healthy tone and extend itself vigorously, nothing should be done to weaken still further its hold upon be done to weaken still further its hold upon the confidence of the public. But this is the very things that the department has been doing by the issue of this ill-considered notice. And this thing has been done by a department that owes its very existence to the desire of the country and of the Legislature that mining enterprise should receive from the State every possible legitimate support and encouragement. From the report of the recent interview between the Minister roa Minister and deputation on this question, it would appear that in practice the notice of the 11th ultimo will not be strictly adhered to. But the Ministerial declarations of policy were not so definite as they might and should were not so definite as they might and should have been. Something more clearly intelligible is wanted to restore public confidence. have been. Something mo

THAT part of the Victorian Statistical Repor for the past year, 1873, concerning production is of sufficient interest to warrant further notice.

There may come a time when energy directed to the attainment of some other end than the production in large quantities of what is needed to clothe and nourish the body will be looked upon as the sign and substance of progress; but now things must be taken as they are, and not as poets and speculative philosophers would have them. It may please SHELLEY to exclaim against the selfishness of competition: competition : -

Commerce beneath whose poison-breathing shade No solitary virtue dares to spring. But Poverty and Weslth, with equal hand, Scatter their withering curses, and unfold The doors of premature and violent death To pining famine and full-fed discase."

And CARLYLE may express a desire to rub out the trade principles and begin the world again without them, inciting men to glory in other things than those which perish in the using. But while the advancement is understood t But while the advancement is understood to mean the quantity of land redeemed from the waste, and the weight per acre extracted by the skill of man, of the crop desired, the quantity of metals brought from the mine, and the multitudes of people employed in fabrication, there would be little use in assuming to be prematurely wise.

The business of a colony is understood to be to establish itself in the wilderness, to increase, to spread, to develop the resources of the country, to export heavily of raw materials, and to become consumers of the manufactured products of the mother country. These are Victoria. Of the entire area of the country about one fifth is actually alienated. Taking the MINISTER OF LANDS last report as correct. it is more than this, since he shows fourteen and a half million acres, in place of nine and a half million acres alienated: but, inasmuch as the purchase of a large portion of the difference between the two sums is not completed, nor will be for some years to come, it is scarcely fair to take the whole. If none is taken the unalienated lands of the colony measure 47 million acres. The average amount paid by purchasers was £1 3s. 6d. an acre. The saics of the year amounted to 529,309 acres. This was less by 225,000 acres sign acres. This was less by 225,000 acres than the sales in 1872. The approximate area of Crown lands embraced in squatting runs was nearly 26,000,000 acres. The rent paid was at the rate of 1:308d. per acre. More than half the runholders had purchased, as well as Crown, lands embraced in their holding as Crown, inner embraced in their holdings.
The purchased land so held amounts to nearly 2,000,000 acres, an average of 4065 to each holder. The runs are diminishing, and have done so since 1864. In that year there were 283 more runs, comprising 4,633,358 acres more than in 1873.

As compared with this state of things, how stands it in South Australia, the contrast being more natural between these two colonies than between Victoria and New South Wales? The total area alienated from the Crown up to the end of the year 1873-4 was 5,350,000 acres, of which 4,395,185 acres were sold. Of this quantity 955,310 acres were sold on credit, the remainder for cash; and three-fifths of the whole is in the hands of treeholders. The sold land averages 26 acres for each individual of the population, or 112 acres for each male adult. In Victoria the sold land averages nearly 1: acres for each person, or about 54 acres for each male adult. In this particular, therefore, South Australia is in advance of her neighbours considerably. The enclosure of pastoral as well as of new agricultural land increases rapidly. The approximate quantity returned is well as of new agricultural land increases rapidly. The approximate quantity returned is 15,719,610 acres, as compared with 13,021,440 acres last season. The Lands Office was kept very busy during the year, as might be expected from the results of the previous harvest. A great deal of land was required for wheatbearing, the demand being, as it is thought, considerably quickened by the new system of deferred payments and compulsory cultivation, At the same time we observe an increase in the rease in th number of holdings in Victoria, 2000 occupiers being added to the list.

The area under tillage amounts in all to 964,996, or about 1.75 per cent. of the entire cultivated land is about 4.75 per cent. of the whole. The proportion of purchased land in tillage in the three colonies, New South tillage in the three colonies, New South Wales, Victoria, and South Australia is 1 in every 203 acres, 1 in every 93 acres, and 1 in

The wheat crop in Victoria was 36 per cent.
of the whole cultivation, having increased 2 per cent. in twelve months; oats were 11; per cent. of the whole, having declined; barley was 2 1-5 of the whole cultivated area; potatoes occupied a space equal to about 4 per cent. of the whole, the hay crop to about 12 per cent. green forage to about 22 per cent. The proportion of wheat to the whole culti-vated area in South Australia was about two-

Judging from the figures, the practice of renting purchased land must be general.

The freehold land amounted to 7,212,041 acres, the purchased rented land to 1,414,221 acres. The average duration of leases of farms rented from private individuals was from ne to seven years, and the rental from 2s. to

The statist observes that a marked rise in The statist observes that a marked rise in all descriptions of agricultural produce took place in the year under review, which will probably have the effect of bringing a larger quantity of the uncultivated area into use. Thus potatoes nearly doubled in price, hay rose nearly a tenth, and the cereals from 1s. to 2s. a bushel.

Tables of labour are to be found in this

Tables of labour are to be found in this report, affording some interesting data. Thus, on farms there were, in 1872-3, a total of 76,990 persons employed, and in 1873-4, 82,001. In the latter case, 25,420 were females. On stations there were 5816 in 1872-3, and 6574 in 1673-4, 1546 in the latter case being females. A good deal of use is made of these figures for party purposes. It is maintained by one side, that because farming finds employment for the most people it must be better for the country than squatting; but of course the only data to be compared to settle this question are those which show the aggregate produce of the stations and the farms, and the economist will generally look with most favour economist will generally look with most favour on that branch of industry which shows the on that branch of industry which shows the least expenditure of labour for the greatest result. An increase took place in the hands employed on stations and farms between 1872-3 and 1873-4, at the rate of 6½ per cent. on the latter and 15 per cent. on the former. A general rise in the average rates of wages is observable on both fields of enterprise. Not only is this the case, but the investment of capital in the land is cheeked by the want of labour. Hence the landed occupiers are endeavouring at the present time. ecupiers are endeavouring at the present time to move the Parliament to sanction the expendi-ture of a large sum of public money in assisting immigrants.

Owing to the greater care with which the statistics of Victoria are collected they are much more reliable than our own. The Victorian Government depends upon the muni-cipalities. The same agency is not available cipalities. The same agency is not available here, seeing that the municipal system in incomplete; but it is worth while trying whether the agents now employed cannot be improved upon. It is of the utmost importance for us as well as for Victoria to be informed what is the effect of land legislation form was to wear but in the absence of reliable from year to year, but in the absence of reliable data all is uncertainty.

THE readers of the Herald will have observed THE readers of the Heraid will have observed that Mrs. ALEXANDER has presented to the University of Sydney a donation which, when invested, will yield £50 a year in perpetuity; to be paid to a student attending the University for the three years of his studies as an undergraduate: and that the receiver of this income is to be called the "Maurice Alexander Bursan."

The name of the endowment speaks for itself; it is intended to be the perpetual record of a wife's affectionate reverence for the commands our respect, the monument which bears witness to it is entitled to the highest praise, as shewing at once the munificence and the wisdom of the lady who has reared it. The munificence all can appreciate, but it requires some attention to the details of Mrs. Arx-ANDER'S communication to the Senate, and some knowledge of academical matters, to judge how wisely this money has been bestowed. The Bursary is not intended to stimulate general proficiency, or proficiency in any special branch,—it is not a prize, to be competed for by all comers; but it is intended for those who. all comers; but it is intended for those who, but for such a boon, would have been debarred, in great measure, from the attainment of knowledge, and altogether from the field of competition. It is to remove the barrier of poverty, where otherwise it would preve in surmountable, and to enable the sons of poor parents to aspire, for the first time, to the advantages of higher education, and the homours of an academical degree.

vantages of higher education, and the honours of an academical degree.

Poor parents in Sydney have long enjoyed, and largely used, these privileges; and the University can boast that it has paid as little regard to the distinctions of rich and poor, as it has to the differences of creed. A poor man's son can by living with his friends, attend the University, at a cost little in excess of twenty guineas a year; and if his friends' means are insufficient for even that payment he can be guiness a year; and if his friends' means are insufficient for even that payment, he can be, and often has been, exempted from it, without publicity or humiliation of any kind; nay more, by gaining a scholarship, of which there are hree open to competition for the students of each year, he may relieve his parents in some degree from the burden of maintaining him. And in order to prepare himself for such competition, he has his choice between a number of excellent and admirable schools, at one of which, the Grammar School, provision has been made the Grammar School, provision has been made for affording gratuitous education to those who need it, and who show capacity for turning it to good account. But the moment we remove from Sydney all these advantages disappear. Here and there, it is true, there is an excellent private school where classics and mathematics are efficiently taught, but they are accessible to only a very few, save boarders; and the poor man's son is left to his own industry, and a few scantlings of occasional help from some judicious friend; and how can one so prepared hope to carry off a scholarship from the young athletes of this city? It is for the poor students in the country that the Maurice Alexander Bursary is exclusively designed by its foundress.

Of the other provisions accompanying this gift much might be said, but it will be sufficient for the present to commend them to the careful study of all the friends of higher education; study of all the friends of higher education; they will see in them what has been done to spare the feelings of applicants—to insure the election of proper candidates, and to obtain exemptions from University fees, which exemp-tions will increase the value of the stipend by nearly half as much.

Let us hope, in conclusion, that the example of this splendid act of munificence will stir or this spiendid act of munincence will stir up many a congenial heart among our weathier colonists to efforts in the same direction. No one can take from Mrs. ALEXANDER the praise of being the first, but it will be neces-sary that many should follow her example before the dwellers in all parts of New South Wales can rejoice in the light of an institution which was founded for them as well as for us, which was founded for them as well as for us, and the University be recegnised as the University, not of its own immediate neighbourhood alone, but of the whole country by which it is endowed and supported. And let it be remembered that this object can only be attained by private liberality. The Parliament has done its part, and done it nobly, and will never be slow to supplement whatever is lacking, either in the building, or museums and laboratories, or the salaries of teachers, or prizes for the encouragement of tearning, but it is no part of the functions of a Government to assist private individuals in the attainment of even the most praiseworthy ends. In the Universities of Europe, the provisions made for the maintenance of poor visions made for the maintenance of poor scholars, as such, are due to private munif-

NEW SOUTH WALES.

The past month has been marked by one of the events which have now become rare in the history of the mother country. We refer to the annexation of Fiji, which was formally ceded by Cacobau to Sir Hercules Robinson, at Ovalau, on the 30th ultimo. On the same day, the special commissioner left for the Windward Islands, in H.M.S. Pearl, to obtain the signature of Masfu to the articles of cession. When our special correspondent forwarded the latest despatch to hand, his Excellency had not returned, but was expected prior to the 8th instant, the date fixed for the consummation of his special duties, such as hoisting the British flag, &c. Mr. Consul Layard will probably fails the duties of Acting Governor until the intentions of the Home Government are more fully known. We have much pleasure in being able to announce that the promptitude with which our Government, aided by the A. S. N. Company, who were the first to provide boats for inaugurating the line, acted in the emergency which arose out of the failure of the Californian mail contractors has resulted satisfactorily. The hon, the Fostmaster General and the special commissioner appointed by Now Zealand closed their negotiations yesterday, with an agreement that the temporary service should be continued until a permanent contract can be commenced, and that the expenses of both be jointly defrayed by the two colonise. We shall also be prepared to hear in due course that a colonial proprietary with adequate recourses will own the steamers camployed on the line. Nothing but a really strong company will restore the prestige lost by the psevious contractors. The Australian Mutual Provident Society, now one of the most important insurance companies in the world, recently published its fifth quinquenial report, showing that important insurance companies in the world, recently published its fifth quinquenial report, showing that between February, 1869, and December, 1873, its con-solidated reuenue incressed 124 per cent. The total receipts, exclusive of profits on investments, amounted to £1,195,542, against a total expenditure of £500,842. On the 10th instant the revenue statement for the past quarter was published. The receipts amounted to £788,812, being an increase of £14,719 on the corresponding period of 1873, nothwithstanding the abolition of ad valorem duties which helped to swell the revenue for last year. Monetary affairs are in a healthy state, capital plentiful for investment at cheap rates, and commercial credit sound. The public movement initiated last month in favour of making public education free and compulsory is spreading through the country districts. This question is certain to form one of the issues to be considered at the forthcoming general elections. Statistics lately issued from the Registrar-General's Department show that although immigration is not as large as the interests of the colony require, population is steadily increasing. During the first half of the year there was an addition of 10,200 to the population. On the 26th ultimo the amateurs of Sydney competed with a Victorian crew for the acquatic championship of the colonies, and regained the laurels lost at Melbourne last year. These contests commenced nearly twelve years ago, and only once was Sydney defeated. In the early part of 1875 the Hon. J. Vogel, on the part of New Zealand, and Mr. Daintry, acting for Queensland, are to co-operate with the representative of this colony in London to arrange for laying telegraphic cables from Sydney to New Zealand, and from Queensland to Singapore. When this is accomplished, the seatern colonies will be independent of Port Darwin and Java line, and we shall have a more intimate connection with New Zealand. receipts, exclusive of profits on investments, amounted to £1,196,542, against a total expenditure of £500,842.

poor spinion of people who deliberately determine to ignore its claims to consideration, and to plunder on portion of the community for the supposed benefit of another. They think, doubtless, that men who are so silly and have so little regard for right as to burden their trade and despoil the majority for the sake of pampering a minority, are not fit to be trusted, and that the abundities they have been guilty of are only on earnest of still further follies. We may kick against such conclusions as much as we like, and endeavour to demonstrate that we can grow rich by means of a system which has impoverabled every country that has tried it, but those who have studied history and understand economic law, will simply laugh at our statements, and, while pitying our ignorance, draw tight their purebarrings.

The Achieverural Labourans' Strike.—Twenty-two agricultural labourers (asys the Pall Mall Gazelle, of August 8), now marching through the north of England, were ordered into custody yesterday by the chief constable of Braiford, while marching through that town. The chief constable, when the men were charged before the magistrates, said he had ordered them into custody for begging. They were all ablebodied men, and liable to be sent to prison for a month. If he had been in the town a fortnight ago, when they held a public meeting, he would have ordered them all into custody. There was plenty af work to be had, and no excuse for begging. The magistrates discharged the men, but said they would be sent to prison if they were again seen in the town with collecting cards or boxes. HORTICULTURE AND FARMING.

It is intended that this estate should be seld in one lot; but the purchaser will have the advantage of the surveyor's labours in apportioning these wills sites, which were selected to command the most extensive and varied views of the windings of the Nepsan, Hawkesbury, and the towns lying on its banks.

*2 It is believed that the coal seams which are plainty visible on the side of the mountain overhanging Cox's River, about eight miles in astraight line from Edinglassis, underlie this estate, and that at no very considerable depth they could be found and worked with immease profit. The improvements consist of a gardener's octage, and of a gardene containing many choics fruit trees, planted on the richest description of soil knows.

The run cutside the peddocks is admirably adapted for cattle breeding, beling well grassed on the ridges in summer, while the rich guilies afford ample pasturage and shelter during the winter months.

THE MAITLAND MERCURY, SECOND MOST VALUABLE NEWSPAPER PROPERTY
in the colony of New South Wales.

RUNKER and SPARKE are instructed by the Trustees of the late Mrs. Alexander Falls (acting upon directions of his Honor the Primary Judge in Equity) to sell absolutely, by public austion, at the Exchange, Sydney, on WEDNESDAY, the 4th day of November, 1874, at 12 o'clock.

THE ENTIRE PROPERTY of the MATTAND MERCHEN newspaper, including copyright, plant, stock, book debts, and all effects thereof, as the business is now carried on.

THE PLANT, which is equal to the production of a much larger newspaper than the present Menchany, consists of two printing machines (the largest a Napier perfecting, about double-double imperial size, taking on the four large Marcury pages at once casily; the other takes on four news damp pages). These are worked by a four-horse steam engine, with new air-horse botler. A folding-machine, three printing presses, two large imposing surfaces, &c., &c. The type in regular use, if all were set up at cince, would be equal to about 110 columns, or 15 to 10 pages of the MERCURY, as now used. The Marcury is (next after the Sydney Morning Herall) and the Kenting the largest newspaper in the colony; and is published three times a week (on Tuesdays and Thorsdays with four pages, and on Saturdays six jages—the largest in Australasis, being 28 inches by 19 inches of the surface, each equal to fully one and a half pages of the usual new size (as Sydney Morning Herall) and other papers).

The MAITLAND MERCURY is published at Maitland, the principal town of the Hunter River, the richest and most populous of the districts of New South Wales. The unrivalled coal beds of the whole Hunter Valley, surrounded by immense tracts of fertile sgricultural land; an extensive and wealthy grazing interest, and its allience with the wast pastoral interior, are attractive features, tending to establish a sottled, enterprising, and intelligent population, and securing to it wealth and prosperity for agus to come.

The Marcury was patabilished in 1842, and having always maintained a high standard, may be classed amongst the leading journals of the day; corroborative of which its circulation has steadily interessed, and it is now larger than ever. As an advertising medium it cannot be surpassed. It is regularly distributed throughout the most isolated as wall as the densely-populated districts of New South Wales and adjoining colonies.

The net profits have been very large, and, notwithstanding several fortunes having boan derived from this valuable newspaper property, it is capable of great? improvement; whilst a much larger devertising and jobbing irred might saily be done.

QUAMBONE

MOLLE

Molle of the Mammerawa, or Lower Macquaris River, and also the Warren Crock running through it.

This latter creek has never been known to fail, and there are also a number of swamps and small creeks which hold water the best part of the year. In fact, it is admitted to be the best watered station on the Lower Macquaris, and for its size will carry more cattle than any other it all seasons. It should also be remembered that the Marthaguy Crock joins Warren Creek just inside the boundary fence, so that if it rains up the Merri Merri, or sny other of the irrbutary creeks, Quambone GRTS THE BENKEFIT of it. This fact makes this estation invaluable for fattening, for not cally do the cattle have no distance to travel fer wave, but in times of dry season, when a food consec down, in a few days the country IS LIKE A WHRAT FIELD. The whole of the country consists of myall and salthesh, with magnificent reed beds ALL ALONG the PRUNT-AGE.

Molle is diesely opposite to Gardiner's famous Bora red beds, and both side of the river any unequalled for fattening in NEW SOUTH WALES.

The heard has been principally bred from Lee bulls, and the Meuran Dargin have been calling for some years.

The whole of the cattle are fat, and there is a nice draft now ready for market.

The improvements are substantial and complete, and comprise comfortable cottage and kitchen, stockyards, paddocks, &c., &c.

Bvery facility will be given intending purchasers to inspect, and the fullest information can be had at the efficiency and the succioners, as they are well acquainted with the country, having owned the adjoining Wamerawa run for a number of years.
